HIGHPOWER SHOOTERS FINISH FALL WITH CMP GAMES MATCHES

Once the Summer shooting season is wrapped up, several ORSA highpower shooters focus on the CMP Games matches that focus on the shooting of vintage and surplus military rifles of all types. In Mid-October ORSA hosted the State CMP Games Championships, and then several shooters traveled to Talladega Alabama to the CMP Marksmanship Park for matches the week and weekend before Thanksgiving.

The State Championships have been hosted at ORSA the last several years and we are fortunate to receive and donate prizes sponsored by several shooting supply vendors. This year we had prizes provided by Creedmoor Sports, Midway USA, Vortex, and reloading supplies provided by Capstone Precision Group. The following were first place finishers for each of the Garand/Springfield and Vintage Rifle Matches: Robert Taylor (M1 Garand), Kyle Kirschenmann (M1093 Springfield), and David Graham (M1917). David Graham also had excellent scores with his other two rifles to claim the three-gun aggregate first place finish

GSMM Top Three:

First place finishers (L to R) David Graham (Vintage and 3-Gun), Kyle Kirschenmann (Springfield), Robert Taylor (M1 Garand).

VST Top Three:

3rd Place Team Barney Gaskin and Robert Taylor.
2nd Place Team Kyle Kirschenmann and Tony Lacy.
1st Place Team John Chubb and Troy Alexander.

T600 GSMM Winner:

Kyle Kirschenmann showing off his two gold and one silver medal for the win of the 3-gun Aggregate of M1 Garand, M1903 Springfield, and M1917 Matches at the Talladega 600.

for the day. Sunday's Vintage Sniper Team Match was won by John Chubb and Troy Alexander with Swedish M41b's.

The following month, approximately ten shooters traveled to Talladega and the CMP Marksmanship Park to shoot in a combination of service rifle and vintage rifle matches for 5 days before Thanksgiving week. ORSA shooters were by far the largest contingent of attendees at the Talladega CMP Matches. For the second time in a row, Kyle Kirschenmann seemed to be making all the right shots as he earned top scores in each of the three GSMM matches to win first place for the Three Gun Aggregate among over 30 other competitors.

The matches for the 2022 season will be posted online soon. Check the following: <https://orsarandp.com/hp-events/> for dates and updates. Also new for next year, check the Rangefinder for potential adjustments and opportunities to the high-power clinics. ORSA typically hosts' three per year, but that may change to accommodate new shooters.

ATTENTION BLACK POWDER ENTHUSIASTS

We are looking for black powder enthusiasts who share the enjoyment of old school firearms to join us to compare notes, swap lies, tell tall tales, and have fun while shooting black powder.

WHERE: ORSA Range

WHEN: A scheduled Saturday or Sunday or week-day evening - dependent on participant's desire.

WHO: Open to all black powder firearms - flint lock, cap lock, in-line, and pistol.

REQUIREMENT: It must use black powder or its equivalent.

We'll shoot various targets at different distances. Some will be traditional black powder targets along with assorted fun things.

Prizes can be included as well as various divisions dependent on participation numbers.

Please let me know your interest and suggestions.

MEMBERSHIP & ADDRESSES

Happy New Year - hope everyone had a happy and healthy holiday season and are ready to come to the range with any new toys that Santa may have brought you.

Frequently I'll get emails and phone calls because someone isn't receiving their rangefinder or didn't get a renewal notice in the mail. When checking it's often because the address we have on file is no longer current. It is very important if you move to let us know what your new address is. Because of the way our mailings are done, we do not receive back any rangefinders or renewal notices that aren't delivered. This means the only way we know you have a new address is if you let us know. You can let us know about address changes via email, dropping us a note in the mail or by phone.

You can also find the rangefinder online on our website - under the news banner.

NEWS FROM SKEET & TRAP & SPORTING CLAYS

By the time this reaches you we will be in another year. I hope the coming year will be a healthy and prosperous year for us all. It looks like ammunition is starting to be available again.

We are replacing six skeet machines and three trap machines in January. We expect to have the new machines in service in time for the start of the Polar Bear Fun Skeet League January 9th. Polar Bear League is a great opportunity for anyone thinking of taking up skeet shooting. For full details contact Ron Raymond at knoxvilleron@gmail.com.

As always be safe, shoot well and shoot often.

ARCHERY NEWS

ATTENTION: ALL ARCHERY RANGE USERS

If you are interested in having an input into Archery Range usage please attend a meeting at the Club House on January 8, 2022 at eight o'clock am.

It is apparent that some users have decided that the rules of the Archery Range do not apply to them. We have had articles in the Range Finder, signs posted, verbal meetings, and instruction in orientation meetings about crossbow and broadhead usage on targets.

Taking up the targets this year it is apparent that someone is still shooting broadheads into 3D targets. They continue to shoot only in the center section of the large block targets. This has caused a great deal of damage to both type targets. We cannot as a group continue allowing this type of destruction to continue.

If this article makes you think that changes are coming to open usage of the entire Archery Range you would be correct.

Bows of all types have continued to be manufactured with greater speed and thus more power. We have got to stop the destruction of our targets. We do not patrol or limit the time the Archery Range is open, but if changes are not made by users then this enjoyment could be soon be restricted.

In the future all crossbow shooters may be required to bring your own targets' we are putting up additional cameras to observe range usage.

THE RIGHT TO KEEP AND BEAR ARMS

The Right to Keep and Bear Arms (RKBA) column is now available each month on the ORSAONLINE web site at (www.orsaonline.org/rkba.asp). From time to time, the RKBA column will be included in the printed version which is mailed to members' homes when space permits.

Please remember that each edition of the Rangefinder is also available online at ORSAONLINE (www.orsaonline.org/newsletters.asp) and is normally available before the edition arrives by mail.

In all my years I never would have thought I would see my country recklessly abandoning the U.S. Constitution. The Founding Fathers felt some rights were so important that they cited them specifically in the Bill of Rights (BOR). But today the First, Second, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Eighth Amendments are under direct assault. It appears that the rule of law is suspended for persons supporting one political party, all while persons supporting another political party are persecuted. We have government mandates that have attacked the middle class of America by bankrupting small businesses. We have other mandates that have dehumanized the populace by requiring masks. We have government mandates that require COVID shots for all citizens but not for the millions of illegals that are streaming across the southern border. And by year end there will be over two million illegals, for over 130 countries, spread all across America, virtually without any vetting.

So what is our last line of defense? This month's articles answer that question (the bolding of the text was done by me for emphasis).

TYRANNY, FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS, AND THE ARMED CITIZEN ARMED SELF-DEFENSE AS A BASIC HUMAN RIGHT

Is armed self-defense a basic human right? That is the crux of an ongoing debate for many people in the United States. It shouldn't be but it is.

The Second Amendment to the United States Constitution makes clear that armed self-defense is a fundamental human right. If anyone harbors doubt about that, the United States Supreme Court settled the question in 2008, in the seminal Second Amendment case, Heller vs. District of Columbia.

The late eminent Associate Justice, Antonin Scalia, writing for the majority, opined "the inherent right of self-defense has been central to the Second Amendment right."

This means armed self-defense is not to be perceived as a thing apart from the broader notion of self-defense, but, rather, is subsumed in it.

The sole issue in Heller was "whether a District of Columbia prohibition on the possession of usable handguns in the home violates the Second Amendment to the Constitution."

In ruling that an outright ban on the use of a handgun for self-defense in one's home does violate the core of the Second Amendment right, the majority also held that the right of the people to keep and bear arms is an individual right unconnected with one's service in a militia. This ruling is consistent with and is implied in the Court's ruling on the salient issue.

Moreover, the High Court made patently clear that Government didn't create the right of armed self-defense but simply codified it, for the right of armed self-defense exists intrinsically in one's being.

The Court said,

"Putting all of these textual elements together, we find that they guarantee the individual right to possess and carry weapons in case of confrontation. This meaning is strongly confirmed by the historical background of the Second Amendment. We look to this because it has always been widely understood that the Second Amendment like the First and Fourth Amendments codified a pre-existing right. The very text of the Second Amendment implicitly recognizes the pre-existence of the right and declares only that it 'shall not be infringed.'"

The recent Kyle Rittenhouse case is a textbook study of the utility of a firearm in effective defense of self against aggressive predatory attack.

But this idea doesn't sit well with Anti-Second Amendment proponents:

"Gun rights are not human rights."

So says "democracy and human rights advocate," Rukmani Bhatia who had served in the Obama Administration.

Her assertion is posited not as a thesis to be proved but as an assumption to be accepted as self-evident, true, notwithstanding the plain meaning of the Second Amendment and the High Court's rulings in Heller.

Bhatia makes the assertion in a "Report" published by the George Soros funding Marxist think tank, "Center for American Progress," on August 12, 2020.

The Report is titled, "Untangling the Gun Lobby's Web of Self-Defense and Human Rights," and is subtitled, "Peddling False Rights, Profiting Off Fear."

Bhatia writes, in pertinent part,

"Today, alongside this rights-based narrative, a parallel narrative exists that is perpetuated by the U.S. gun industry as part of a multifaceted effort to increase gun sales. This so-called gun-rights narrative manipulates the ideals of human rights to establish not only an inalienable right to life but also an unfettered right to armed self-defense to protect oneself from any perceived threat of harm. This narrative hinges on fear and the need to defend oneself and loved ones from unknown but ever-present threats through whatever means necessary and without regard to the rights of others."

It is grounded by the false claim that the most effective means of self-preservation involves using a firearm."

From her remarks, dubious and outlandish as they are, one detects a note of irritation and frustration, borne of a deep-seated ethical or aesthetic abhorrence of guns and of the citizen's right to keep and bear them. But there is more to be gleaned from this account.

The Marxist antagonism directed to armed self-defense, as reflected in Bhatia's "Report," hides a sinister agenda.

It is an agenda at loggerheads with the sanctity and inviolability of personal selfhood and one inconsistent with the preservation of the United States as a free Constitutional Republic.

Grounded on the tenets and precepts of Collectivism (See e.g., Arbalest Quarrel article on the differences between Collectivism and Individualism), the Marxist intends to thrust their vision of reality on the entire Nation. Most Americans find that vision disagreeable if not thoroughly reprehensible and repugnant.

The Marxist isn't unaware of this and resorts to artifice and chicanery to seduce the polity. The Marxist relies on the legacy Press and social media to assist in making it palatable to the public policy goals designed to transform a free Republic into a Marxist Dictatorship.

Marxists mask their disdain for the dignity of man by disingenuously claiming to venerate it.

At the outset of her Center for American Progress Report, Bhatia cites Article 1 of "The Universal Declaration of Human Rights" ("UDHR") a document crafted by the United Nations, where, citing Article 1 of the UDHR and then expanding on the sentiments of it, Bhatia writes,

"Every human life has inherent value and dignity, and every person has the right to life, liberty, and personal security. These truths are codified in the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR). The UDHR was historic, with nations coming together to explicitly recognize the need to protect and preserve these fundamental rights, structuring constitutions to explicitly defend their citizens' human rights, and particularly their rights to life, freedom, and security. The protection of human rights continues to be a defining pillar to secure a stable, peaceful liberal world order. But in the United States, some groups—such as the gun lobby—are seizing upon this rights-based narrative to justify, dangerously, the right to bear, carry, and use firearms."

The United Nations says this about the development of the UDHR:

"Drafted by representatives with different legal and cultural backgrounds from all regions of the world, the Declaration was proclaimed by the United Nations General Assembly in Paris on 10 December 1948 (General Assembly resolution 217 A) as a common standard of achievements for all peoples and all nations. It sets out, fundamental human rights to be universally protected and. . . is widely recognized as having inspired, and paved the way for, the adoption of more than seventy human rights treaties, applied today on a permanent basis at global and regional levels. . . ."

Extolling the sentiments of the UDHR, as Rukmani Bhatia does in her Center for Progress Report, is all well and good. But how is one expected to effectively confront an aggressive, vicious attack that emanates from the predatory beast, predatory man, or the tyrannical, predatory Government if not through armed self-defense? The Marxist, Bhatia, doesn't say, which begs the very question at issue in her Report. Is Bhatia not aware of this? Perhaps, she is aware of this but consciously chooses to slither around it, hoping no one perceives the gaping hole that she has left open in her Report.

In an attempt to avoid dealing with the question, head-on, Marxists, like Bhatia, simply take the easy way out. They deny the essence of the problem, claiming, as Bhatia does, and as she argues, that the threat of harm isn't real, was never real, but is and always was grounded in an unwarranted fear of harm.

But the threat is real, and the fear isn't unwarranted, and Americans are witnessing all of it. And it is painfully evident through the inaction and empty posturing of effete and impotent Federal and State Governments to the harm generated.

Either the Marxist-controlled Federal Government and similar Marxist-controlled State and local Governments are simply inept and incompetent and, so, wholly unable to deal with the harm, or they welcome, even encourage, the attendant harms to the citizen and society alike. Likely it is a combination of both.

The framers of the United States Constitution had the answer to the threat of harm caused by predatory beast, predatory man, or predatory Government, an unwelcome one for these Marxists, to be sure, as they aim to break apart American society and culture so that they can rebuild society in accordance with the strictures of Marxism.

The answer rests in the Nation's Bill of Rights (BOR), specifically in the citizen's exercise of his Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms. This, more than anything else, is the answer to the bedlam and mayhem wrought by those that seek the Country's undoing. Small wonder, then, that these Marxists desire to destroy the Right. http://arbalestquarrel.com/tyranny-fundamental-rights-and-the-armed-citizen/#post\_content

THE CITIZEN MUST BE EVER ON GUARD OF GOVERNMENT THAT PROMISES HARMONY, SAFETY, AND TRANQUILITY IF HE BUT SURRENDER ALL ARMS TO THE STATE.

Unlike the United Nations that doesn't mention a natural right of armed self-defense in its Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR), our Nation embraces it.

The States ratified the Nation's Bill of Rights (BOR) on December 15, 1791.

The BOR predates the UDHR by over one hundred and fifty years even as the UN heralds its own UDHR as "a milestone."

In codifying the right of armed self-defense in the BOR, the Framers of it at once proclaimed the sanctity of Personal Selfhood and provided a rationale for it: the need for the citizen to remain wary of the tyranny of Government.

The Second Amendment provides both a stark warning to the Government and a categorical prohibition on Government apropos of it.

The people need not and must not abide by the tyranny of Government, and Government is prohibited from tampering with this perfect fail-safe mechanism by which the American people may effectively resist the inception of tyranny.

The language of the Second Amendment to thwart tyranny is self-executing. In fact, the clearest indication of the Government's slide into tyranny is through the unlawful attempt to eradicate the American citizenry's exercise of the right embodied in it.

"Every human life has inherent value and dignity, and every person has the right to life, liberty, and personal security."

The only reason the Government would dare to take such action to eradicate the exercise of the right of armed self-defense would be to preclude the citizenry from exercising the means by which it is well capable of repelling the insinuation of tyranny on the citizenry.

The danger of ever-present tyranny is manifest in the prefatory clause of the Second Amendment—pointing to “a well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State.” And the subsequent independent clause of the Second Amendment provides the ultimate fail-safe mechanism of which the citizen shall avail himself if Government devolves into tyranny: “the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.”

The framers of the Bill of Rights recognized that man cannot secure his life, safety, and well-being from the predatory beast, predatory man, or predatory government in the absence of an effective means to do so—as only a firearm provides.

Superficially, the United Nations’ UDHR and the BOR may seem similar, as both documents point to and allude, in their language, to the higher aspirations and Rights of man.

But, on the crucial matter of self-defense, the principal difference between the two is laid bare.

The United Nations doesn’t presume or countenance individuals as having the wherewithal or even the right and responsibility to provide for the defense of Self.

Self-defense remains a prerogative and responsibility of the UN apropos of nations, whether in an individual or collective capacity. The UN does not recognize “Self-defense” as a right intrinsic to individual human beings, whether in an individual or in a collective capacity.

Fundamental Rights are Natural preexistent Rights—existing intrinsically in man. They aren’t creations of man.

The “Articles” qua Rights, delineated in the UDHR, are considered mutable and limitable. They are not to be perceived as—and were never intended to be perceived as—independent of the dictates of the United Nations, but were, in their creation, considered subordinate to the UN’s dictates.

This is evident from a perusal of Clauses 2 and 3 of Article 29 of the UDHR:

“In the exercise of his rights and freedoms, everyone shall be subject only to such limitations as are determined by law solely for the purpose of securing due recognition and respect for the rights and freedoms of others and of meeting the just requirements of morality, public order and the general welfare in a democratic society.”

“These rights and freedoms may in no case be exercised contrary to the purposes and principles of the United Nations.”

Article 29 demonstrates the vacuity of the entire enterprise.

Unlike the Rights codified in the U.S. Constitution’s BOR, the Rights delineated in the UDHR remain subordinate to the crafters of it, who retain ultimate and exclusive authority over it: to keep it, modify it, or erase it, as they wish.

Yet, a declaration of purported human rights that cannot stand on its own, independent of the sanctioning authority that created it, is an edifice built on sand.

The Bill of Rights, unlike the UDHR, is the genuine article, not a vacuous simulacrum of noble aspirations.

The Nation’s Bill of Rights is to be understood as a codification of natural law rights, not man-made conventions. That point is significant.

The framers took as axiomatic that natural law rights are fundamental, unalienable, immutable, and illimitable. As such, they are not lawfully subject to modification, abrogation, or abandonment by the Government; nor can Government perfunctorily dismiss them.

The implication of this is clear: ultimate power, authority, and sovereignty rest solely in the American people, not in the Federal Government.

Any attempt by the Government to limit, abrogate, or deny to the American people the unalienable exercise of their fundamental Rights amounts to an unlawful intrusion on and unlawful usurpation of power belonging solely to the American people, and an unlawful encroachment on the sovereignty of the people over Government.

An assault by the Government on the sovereignty of the American people over Government constitutes Tyranny of Government.

Tyranny of Government is Treachery of Government. And, Treachery of Government is Treason by Government directed against its own people.

Armed self-defense is the best hedge against the most serious danger to a free man: the predatory, tyrannical Government.

In dicta, the Heller majority acknowledged this, citing for support, The Federalist 29: “when able-bodied men of a nation are trained in arms and organized, they are better able to resist tyranny.”

Since the Marxist vision of Government and the citizen’s relationship to it requires subordination of the will of the citizen to Government, Marxists abhor the very notion of the “armed citizen.”

Not by accident, then, is there any mention of “self-defense,”—armed or otherwise—in the UDHR. A laundry list of Rights (“Articles”) never so much as alludes to one’s unalienable right of armed self-defense or even of a general right of self-defense.

But, if a man isn’t allowed the exercise of the fundamental right of armed self-defense—if in fact, the very notion of self-defense is not to be perceived of as a basic human right—wherein, then, shall a man look to secure the “inherent value and dignity” of his life that the UN crafters of the UDHR talk so floridly about? In Government? In the new “liberal world order” qua “new world order” that Neo-Marxists and Neoliberal Globalists proclaim to be a good thing? Please!

The American people must resist subtle and overt coercion by these Neo-Marxists and Neoliberal Globalists who urge them to forsake their elemental right of armed self-defense. To do so will imperil both their own lives and well-being and that of a free Constitutional Republic.

THE RANGEFINDER is published monthly by the Oak Ridge Sportsmen's Assoc. (ORSA) and is mailed to all current members. ORSA is an organization of shooters, hunters, archers, fishermen and others dedicated to outdoor sports and conservation. A limited number of complimentary paper copies are available to interested parties and businesses on a first-come, first-serve basis. An electronic version of this newsletter is posting in the news area of the ORSA website.
